The Pirate Function: Developmental Lag, Illegitimate Generation, + Posthuman Contingency

Kavita Philip
PHuN 2018 Keynote

Kavita Philip is Associate Professor of History with affiliate faculty positions in Anthropology and Informatics at UCI. She has worked in environmental studies, colonial history, postcolonial studies, history of technology, political economy, and science fiction studies. She is author of Civilizing Natures (2003 and 2004), and co-editor of four volumes, curating interdisciplinary work in radical history, political science, art, activism, gender, and public policy. She has a Ph.D. in Science and Technology Studies from Cornell, an M.S. in Physics from the University of Iowa, and a B.Sc. in Physics (with Chemistry and Mathematics minors) from the University of Madras, India.

PHuN 2018 2nd Annual Graduate Student Conference
Friday February 23 3:30pm
WRHL L1-04

Coffee @ 3pm
Full conference program + more:
www.post-human.net/conference